Postmaster Anna Allen reports that the post office department is confidently predicting that the volume of mail during this year's Christmas rush will hit a record high. Public cooperation is one important reason that post offices around the country are able to handle this huge amount of mail in such a short period. "Without the assistance of the public, we'd be in a jam. People who shop early and get their cards and parcels into the mails early make it possible for the holiday mail to be delivered on time." she said.

Buy your stamps and mail your packages between the hours of 10 a.m., and 2:30 p.m., and you will catch our post office crew when they are no so busy, thus there will not be the need for waiting in line for service.

In addition to early mailing, the postmaster has serveral other suggestions which will help the hard-working postal employees move this avalanche of mail. First, she recommends using ZIP Codes which help handle the mails faster because of a
